Learning Means The World - Jurassic Hunter, The Story of Mary Anning.
In our LMTW topic this term, the children will be learning about Mary Anning - where she was from, what she is known for the importance of her work. The children will also learn about the importance of fossils, what they tell us about the past and how we can learn about the world from them. This topic will give lots of opportunities to explore in science and discuss changes through time.

English - This term's writing unit is 'Toys from the Past' based on a book called Toys and Games (Ways Into History). As well as learning about how toys have changed over time, children will be learning about the key features of a report (heading, subheading, glossary etc..). To end the topic, children will have an chance in their independent writing to write their own reports using the skills they have learnt throughout the topic.
We have lots of exciting extra curricular activities planned for this topic including a trip to Asquiths Teddy Bear shop in Henley, a toy museum visiting Trinity and a Wonderful Wheels Workshop (please refer to email).
